HTST 351 - SUMMER TERM 2013

Tues & Thurs 12:00 - 2:45 pm

Instructor: Stuart Barnard

Canada's political history is full of controversy, conflict, and change. This course will examine the history of politics in Canada from the middle of the nineteenth through the end of the twentieth, from the rise of responsible government and the Confederation of Canada through to the end of the Chretien era. Some of the major themes that will be explored include the development of political parties, federal-provincial relations, and the leaders who made key decisions in shaping the history of a nation.
