Course Description:

In this course we will investigate the history of Mexico, from colonial period to the present. Using the methodologies of political, economic, social, cultural, and gender history, we will consider the development of this modern nation-state. We will survey important political and economic events in Mexican history, with a focus on how these broader trends intersected with cultural and social change in an ethnically diverse and economically stratified society. As well as developing an understanding of Mexican history, students will improve their writing, critical analysis, and public speaking skills by completing the assignments for this course.

Required Texts:

Required texts are available for purchase at the bookstore, and have been placed on reserve at the library.

Students must complete all assignments to pass this course.

Course Requirements:

Research Project: Research essays will be on a topic of the student’s choosing relating to the history of Latin America since Independence. Students must discuss topics with the instructor.

Book Review: Students will choose a monograph on a topic that they are interested in researching throughout the course of the semester. Students should consult the professor regarding the choice of an appropriate topic and monograph. Book reviews should be 3 pages in length and conform to The History Student’s Handbook in matters of style.

Critical Essay: Students will select three articles on the same topic as the monograph reviewed and weigh the arguments and evidence presented by the three authors. Internet sources, such as Wikipedia, should not be used, but journal articles that were accessed via the internet, using databases such as JSTOR, Historical Abstracts, and Project Muse that are available on the library’s website, are encouraged. Critical essays should be 4-5 pages in length. Be sure to consult The History Student’s Handbook for help with footnotes.

Research Essay: Research essays will represent the culmination of each student’s research throughout the semester, and will be on the same topic as the book review and critical essay. Research essays should be 12 pages (3000 words) in length. Be sure to consult The History Student’s Handbook for help with footnotes. The essay will be assessed on the basis of both the clarity of argument and writing effectiveness (grammar, style, etc.). Bibliographies must include at least 10 sources, in addition to the book and the journal articles from the book review and critical essay.

Participation: Participation will be evaluated on the basis of students’ contributions to classroom discussions of the required readings. Extra credit opportunities will go towards students’ participation grades.

Course Policies:

Please feel free to call or come to see me during my office hours. If you cannot come during the posted times, I would be happy to make an appointment for a mutually convenient meeting time.

Please feel free to e-mail me, but be aware that it may take up to 48 hours for me to respond.

Regular attendance at lectures is essential to students’ successful completion of the course.
Students are welcome to use laptops and other electronic devices to take notes during lectures, but should refrain from surfing the internet and other behaviour that is disruptive to fellow students.

All written work must conform in matters of style to the guidelines in the The History Student's Handbook.

Late assignments that are not accompanied by a legitimate excuse such as a doctor’s note will be penalised one third of a letter grade per day (e.g. From B + to B).

Students who anticipate difficulty meeting a deadline (for academic or personal reasons) should request an extension at least 48 hours before an assignment’s due date.

Students will treat the instructor and fellow students with respect. Refrain from disruptive behaviour. Turn your cell phones off during lecture. Be punctual.

Writing:

This course will include written assignments. Faculty policy directs that all written assignments (including, although to a lesser extent, written exam responses) will be assessed at least partly on writing skills. Writing skills include not only surface correctness (grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, etc.) but also general clarity and organization. Research papers must be properly documented.

Writing Support:

Students are also encouraged to use Writing Support Services and other Student Success Centre Services, located on the 3rd floor of the Taylor Family Digital Library. Writing Support Services assist with a variety of assignments, from essays to lab reports. Students can book 30-minute one-on-one appointments online, sign up for 15-minute drop-in appointments, and register for a variety of writing workshops. For more information on this and other Student Success Centre services, please visit www.ucalgary.ca/ssc.

Copyright:

The University of Calgary has opted out of the Access Copyright Interim Tariff proposed by the Copyright Board. This means that instructors in all University of Calgary courses will strictly adhere to Copyright Act regulations and the educational exceptions permitted by the Act for both print and digital course material. What this simply means is that no copyrighted material may be placed on course D2L or web sites without the prior permission of the copyright holders. In some cases, this may mean that instructors will require you to purchase a print coursepack from the University of Calgary bookstore or that you will have to consult books on reserve at the library. For more information on the University of Calgary’s copyright policy, see http://library.ucalgary.ca/copyright.

Red Box Policy:

Essays and other assignments may be handed in to the red box located outside of the History Department office (SS 656). Assignments received after 4:00 p.m. will be date stamped with the date of the next business day. We do not time stamp any papers. Please do not bring your paper into the office to be stamped. The box is emptied promptly at 8:30 a.m. and at 4:00 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism occurs when one submits or presents one’s work in a course, or ideas and/or passages in a written piece of work, as if it were one’s own work done expressly for that particular course, when, in fact, it is not. As noted in The History Student’s Handbook, plagiarism may take several forms:

- Failure to cite sources properly may be considered plagiarism. This could include quotations, and wording used from another source but not acknowledged.
- Borrowed, purchased, and/or ghostwritten papers are considered plagiarism, as is submitting one's own work for more than one course without the permission of the instructor(s) involved.
- Extensive paraphrasing of one or a few sources is also considered plagiarism, even when notes are used, unless the essay is a critical analysis of those works.
- The use of notes does not justify the sustained presentation of another author’s language and ideas as one’s own.

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and written work that appears to contain plagiarized passages will not be graded. All such work will be reported to the Faculty of Arts’ associate deans of students who will apply the penalties specified in the University of Calgary Calendar.

Universal Student Ratings of Instruction:
At the University of Calgary, feedback provided by students through the Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI) survey provides valuable information to help with evaluating instruction, enhancing learning and teaching, and selecting courses (www.ucalgary.ca/usri). Your responses make a difference. Please participate in USRI Surveys.

Student Accommodations:
Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services; SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. For additional information on support services and accommodations for students with disabilities, visit www.ucalgary.ca/access/.

Students who require an accommodation in relation to their coursework based on a protected grounds other than disability should communicate this need in writing to their Instructor.

The full policy on Student Accommodations is available at http://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/student-accommodation-policy_0.pdf.
