Course Description

This course will examine the interaction between the discovery and integration of commodities and the development of institutions, society, and culture. It will cover a large time span and a wide geographical range in order to gain perspective on the influence of commodities through social and cultural history.

Objectives of the Course

The objectives of this course include: the understanding of changing paradigms and worldviews; the development of critical thinking; the writing of research papers, and fostering the ability to understand the purpose and importance of historical enquiry. The main goal is to see that the past can be seen in diverse and creative ways, and that commodities and their connection to culture is one of them.

Assignments and Evaluation

This course is seminar based and will involve student participation and active contributions. It is paper-based, which means the assignments lead towards a larger paper at the end of the term.

Everyone is expected to contribute to everyone else's success in the classroom. All assignments must be completed in order to pass the course.

Paper Proposal and Outline

Students will be asked to write an essay proposal with a thesis statement and an outline of what it is they wish to research for their final term paper. This assignment is designed to encourage students to begin the process of research for their term paper, but it is not a contract, as your topic may change. It can also be used as a starting point for their paper presentation to the seminar.

Due: Oct 16

Value: 10%

Seminar Leadership

Students will lead 2 seminar discussions based on one of the readings assigned for the week. These presentations are meant to foster discussions in the seminar related to thematic and methodological issues related to the course theme on the notion of commodity history. These are designed to encourage and open up discussion and debate in the seminar. They will be no more than 5 minutes in duration and students will do two during the course of the semester. We will work on a schedule during the first class and roster will be posted on D2L.

Due: Varies

Value: 10% (2 X 5% each)

Paper Presentation

Students will present their ideas and paper themes to the class. The class will provide critical and useful suggestions.

Due: Varies

Value: 10%

Term Paper

Students will be asked to write a 15-20-page term paper on any subject relating to commodity history and the social/cultural impact. This can follow the direction of the outline and bibliography but that is not required. Your essay must contain primary documents and demonstrate historical use of those documents. The 15-20-page length should be based upon standard margins, Times New Roman 12pt. font.

Due: December 4

Value: 50%

Participation

Students are expected to actively engage with the material, their colleagues, and to present their own ideas on the readings. This means that just showing up is not enough to garner full marks.

Date: Ongoing

Value: 20%

Registrar-scheduled Final Examination: No

All assignments and exams must be completed or a course grade of F may be assigned at the discretion of the instructor.

Submission of Assignments: Please hand in your essays directly your instructor if possible in class. If it is not possible to do so, a daytime drop box is available outside the History Department office on the 6th Floor of the Social Science Building. Assignments will be removed the following morning, stamped with the previous day's date, and placed in the instructor's mailbox.

Please include your name and ID number on all assignments. Personal information is collected in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (FOIP) Act. For more information, see <http://www.ucalgary.ca/secretariat/privacy>

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism occurs when one submits or presents one's work in a course, or ideas and/or passages in a written piece of work, as if it were one's own work done expressly for that particular course, when, in fact, it is not. As noted in The History Student's Handbook, plagiarism may take several forms:

- Failure to cite sources properly may be considered plagiarism. This could include quotations, and wording used from another source but not acknowledged.
- Borrowed, purchased, and/or ghostwritten papers are considered plagiarism, as is submitting one's own work for more than one course without the permission of the instructor(s) involved.
- Extensive paraphrasing of one or a few sources is also considered plagiarism, even when notes are used, unless the essay is a critical analysis of those works.
- The use of notes does not justify the sustained presentation of another author's language and ideas as one's own.

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and written work that appears to contain plagiarized passages will not be graded. All such work will be reported to the Faculty of Arts' associate deans of students who will apply the penalties specified in the University of Calgary Calendar.

Universal Student Ratings of Instruction:

At the University of Calgary, feedback provided by students through the Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI) survey provides valuable information to help with evaluating instruction, enhancing learning and teaching, and selecting courses (www.ucalgary.ca/usri). Your responses make a difference. Please participate in USRI Surveys.
