This course examines major works dealing with the history of Sub-Saharan Africa from around the beginning of the Later Iron Age (c. 500-1000 CE) to the current post-colonial era. As this is a historiographical course, there will be a strong emphasis on sources and methods used by historians, and the broader context in which historians work.

For each section (or week) of the course, each student must select one book and prepare an oral review of about 15 to 20 minutes for presentation at the relevant meeting. Each student in the course must select a different book for each section so some coordination will be required. A seminar will begin with the students presenting their oral book reviews and then continue into a general discussion of the theme for that week. Book discussions will start from the first class. Each student will develop three of the oral reviews into three written reviews (800 words each) for submission to the instructor. Furthermore, each student will complete a historiographical essay (around 3000 words) on a specialized topic related to the course material. The historiographical essay will require reading and research beyond the books listed below. The essay topic will be discussed with the course instructor before submission.

Day/Time: Thursdays 1400 (2pm) – 1600 (4pm)
Location: SS 632

Evaluation:
Oral Presentations and Seminar Participation: 30%
Written Book Reviews: 30% (10% for each of three)
Historiographical Essay: 40%

Deadlines:
Students may submit their written book reviews at any point during the course. The essay will be submitted no later than one week after the final session.

Background Reading:
Students are encouraged to consult one or two of the following general overviews of African History:

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism occurs when one submits or presents one’s work in a course, or ideas and/or passages in a written piece of work, as if it were one’s own work done expressly for that particular course, when, in fact, it is not. As noted in The History Student’s Handbook (http://hist.ucalgary.ca/sites/hist.ucalgary.ca/files/history_students_handbook_2015.pdf), plagiarism may take several forms:

- Failure to cite sources properly may be considered plagiarism. This could include quotations, and wording used from another source but not acknowledged.
- Borrowed, purchased, and/or ghostwritten papers are considered plagiarism, as is submitting one’s own work for more than one course without the permission of the instructor(s) involved.
- Extensive paraphrasing of one or a few sources is also considered plagiarism, even when notes are used, unless the essay is a critical analysis of those works.
- The use of notes does not justify the sustained presentation of another author’s language and ideas as one’s own.

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and written work that appears to contain plagiarized passages will not be graded. All such work will be reported to the Faculty of Arts’ associate deans of students who will apply the penalties specified in the University of Calgary Calendar.
Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI):

At the University of Calgary, feedback provided by students through the Universal Student Ratings of Instruction survey provides valuable information to help with evaluating instruction, enhancing learning and teaching, and selecting courses (www.ucalgary.ca/usri). Your responses make a difference. Please participate in USRI surveys.
